After the war the monies or the securities will be paid over to such stockholders with the accrued in terest, but meantime Uncle Sam will loan the dividends and the accruing in-

When the Trading With the Enemy Bill shall become a law, what will be its effect upon Hackfeld & Company and the various other companies in the Territory in which the same stockholders are largely interested? This is a question that is asked almost every time the pending bill, which passed the senate Wednesday, is mentioned in Honolulu. It is known that Hackfeld Company is made up largely of stockholders of the class known as alien enemies and that the same is the case with plantations for which the company is agent.

Company Is Not Affected

From the text of the proposed law, copies of which have been received in Honolulu, it would appear that it will have no direct effect upon the com-panies themselves but will have effect upon the non-resident alien enemy stockholders, those citizens of and res idents in the country of any of the Central Powers. Such stock will be taken over and administered by an ofleial to be known as the alien property ustodian. The duties and powers of his official are to be prescribed by the secretary of commerce, but he must turn over the money which he receives to the secretary of the treasury who certificates of indebtedness, under such rules as he, the secretary of treasury, with the approval of the President, shall prescribe

Hackfeld & Company is a corporation incorporated under the laws of Hawaii, and as such is an American corporation. The fact that its stock is so largely held by resident citizens of an enemy country appears in no wise to affect the status of the corporation. On the other hand the proposed law will have a decided effect upon the foreign Hackfelds and other non-resident German stockholders, for they will re ceive no income from the properties in which their money is invested here until after the war, when this bill be comes a law.

Hagens Talks of Bill

J. F. C. Hagens of Hackfeld & Company was seen by The Advertiser yes-terday and talked freely on the subject of the pending measure and the effect Hackfeld & Company interests.

"This is an American corporation," said Mr. Hagens, "as much an American as any corporation can be since if owes its existence and creation as a corporation to the laws of Hawaii and United States. This is as I read the law.

On the other hand, the situation of the foreign stockholders is different, for those of them who are not citizens of this country but of the Central Powers. The custodian would, as I under stand it, take over the stock of such stockholders, invest the dividends which he receives for them on such stock, keep all such dividends invested, and, when the war is ended account for them force, according to word that has to such stockholders and pay over to reached here from the war department. them all received in the period of his An effort has been made to secure the custody with the accrued interest. How About Meetings

The proposed law provides that the be stricken from the list, permanently or temporarily, and this provision opens interesting possibilities for the Hackfeld corporations.

Will_the custodian be represented at such meetings and if so will he take any part in the management of the companies?

The law says he shall administer the property which he received and this would seem to mean that he shall rep resent the stock or have it represented at the stockholders' meetings; in other words, that the United States, through him, would for the time be as much a stockholder in Hackfeld & Company as any others,—as a matter of fact be the largest stockholder.

From what I am told the heater cannot take the lump asphaltum, and it is necessary to first heat it in a separate container before putting it into the distributor for spreading. We thought the machine sold us was an asphaltum heater as well as a water heater."

Mr. Moses told the board that the machine was sold to them according to catalog submitted at the time of purchase. 'Naturally the asphaltum cannot be put in the container in humps," he said, "and you were all apparently laboring under a misap-prehension."

"You people knew that the asphaltum was purchased by the county in barrels," broke in Supervisor Cabrinha, addressing his remarks to Mr. Moses. "We already have a distributor that will put oil on the roads. and if this machine is only good for

Col, owned by George Awaya, says that the three soldiers engaged him at Kailin yesterday morning to drive them to the Pali. After reaching the Pali, declares Tounaga, the soldiers insisted on him driving them around the island, and, on his refusal to proceed forther, threw him out of the car a little on the Pali side of Kaneohe. Tounaga phoned the police at Kaneohe, and the car was found standing still by Deputy Sheriff E. W. Davis and two police officers, before it had proceeded very far.

The tree men were brought to Honolulu and booked for investigation shortly before noon.

Their story differs materially from that of the Japanese chanfleur, but does not explain away the charge of unlawful conversion which hangs over them.

They stated that Tounaga refused to drive them round the island, and that when near Kaneohe he became frightened and jumped out of the car. The men continued without him but the engine died on them. They were unused to the self-starter with which the car was furnished and as they couldn't, find a crank they had, perforce, to remain where they were until the arrival of the nolice. to fifteen hundred dollars. This Is Not the Time For Territory To Continue Efforts For Special Consideration In Revenue Bill

WAIT UNTIL AFTER WAR. SAYS SENATOR HARDING

Any Fight Now To Secure Exemption Would Be Losing One and Injures Islands in the End, Thinks Statesman

Now is not the time for Hawaii to continue her efforts to secure any specal consideration for Hawaiian coffee in the War Tax Bill, about to go into conference. Such is the opinion of Senator Harding, a very good friend of the Islands and a staunch propectionist, who has taken an interest in the Hawaiian coffee industry and who is anxious to see it fostered and encouraged.

The senate revision of the War Tax Bill imposes an excise duty of two cents a pound on coffee, a consumption tax applicable to all coffees, whether domestic or imported. Delegate Kuhio made an effort to have Hawaiian coffee excluded from the bill and Senator Harding pledged his support in the attempt. Now, according to advices from Washington, the Ohio senator advises that the effort be dropped, and that no effort be made, even, to secure the final adoption of the house tax on coffee, which is only one cent a pound.

Government Needs Revenue In the opinion of Senator Harding and of other senate and house leaders it will be years before this consumption tax on coffee will be taken off. Free coffee has not benefitted the consumer in the slightest, the Brazilian exporters having reaped all the benefits, and the government needs the revenue, now especially. It will continue to need it for years after the conclusion of the war.

After the war period there will be, of course, some tariff repairing, and then will be the time for Hawaii to fight for an exemption from the excise tax, while retaining the tax upon the Brazilian and other foreign coffees. This exemption will then be exactly the same as a tariff protection and the Hawaiian coffee growers will benefit to the extent of the consumption tax upon imported beans. Would Lose Fight

Senator Harding and the other friends of the Islands in the senate believe that to make a losing fight now for exemption—and the fight is cer-tain to be a losing one would preju-dice Hawaii's chance for exemption later on.

It is quite possible, according to the Washington advices, that the present two cent tax upon coffee will be materially increased. The expenditures of the government are piling mountains high and every means of revenue will be worked to the limit. As this tax goes up, the more will Hawaii benefit by waiting and securing an after war exemption.

At the request of the health, eight persons suffering from typhoid fever were removed from their homes to institutions, in the city amion of Dr. R. G. Ayer.
